

Human Ecology Research Seminars

7-8 February 2017

Prof. Karl Bruckmeier

National Research University, Higher
School of Economics, Faculty of Sociology

Moscow, Russian Federation

e-mail: kbrukm@hse.ru

His most recent book - Social-Ecological Transformation: Reconnecting Society and Nature, 2016, Palgrave Macmillan UK - advances a social-ecological theory to reconnect nature and society through sustainable transformation of interacting social and ecological systems.

Seminar 1

Tuesday, February 7, 10.00h-11.30h

Social-ecological systems – a theoretical concept and its practical significance for environmental policy/sustainability strategies

Seminar 2

February 7, 12.00h-13.00h

Sustainability in social-ecological perspectives – the transformation discourse as renewal of the sustainability debate”

Seminar 1 and 2

Room Multiusos 1 Edifício ID

Seminar 3

February 8, 18.00h-21.00h

Sustainable development in sociological perspectives. Comparison of three national strategies and their integration in global strategies: - analysis of the Portuguese, German and Russian strategies”

Seminar 3

Room TB 607

Organized by the FCSH Human Ecology Group and the Laboratory of Interdisciplinary Knowledge (Prof^a Iva Pires and Prof^a Lia Vasconcelos)